BOATS FOR PLEASURE.

the Mississippi.

Clinton, Iowa, April 29.-Lafayette Lamb, the millionaire lumber man and steamboatman of Clinton, has a houseboat, in which he has surpassed all efforts in that line, east or west. The boat is intended entirely for pleasure. It has no propelling power, the intention being to make it as much like a home as is possible. To this end Mr. Lamb has built a special steamer to serve as a tender to his floating home. while the steamer may be used for any of the purposes for which small boats are built, it is supposed to lay by within easy call of the floating palace. The boats have been appropriately christened. The palatial barge is called the Idler and its tender the Wanderer.

The Idler is 120 feet long, 20 feet wide, with a depth of hull of 4½ feet. Forward is the salon, six large staterooms leading off on each side of a hallway from the salon to the dining room, which occupies a position nearly amidship. Att of the dining room is the kitchen, pantry and cold storage and en, pantry and cold storage and attendants' rooms. Adjoining the for-ward staterooms are two bathrooms. The salon, hall, staterooms and dining room are sided and celled in northern pine, oil finish, while the floors are of polished cak. A three-foot cloth dado extends around the dining room, through the hall and around the salon. would delight Abdul Hamid

The staterooms are provided with regulation bedsteads. There is a clothes press, stationary washstand and dressing case in each room.

In the dining room is a square ma-hogany table, with chairs to match. In each corner is a triangular china closet, through the plate doors of which may be seen Haviland ware, each piece bearing the name "Idler." The servants' quarters are in keeping with the general style of the boat. The kitchen is provided with every utensil designed to equip a chef. There is cold storage ample to meet the requirements of an extended river outing and a laundry with adequate capacity.

FRANK JAMES TALKS. Iowa Millionaire's Floating Palace for He is Willing to Serve as a Scout-Must Be on the Move. St. Louis, April 29 .- For the last ten days of the men who served in the Confederate army, and I think that within two months'

this time there is no use to talk this time there is no use to talk But at this time there is no use to talk about raising a company of scouts, and I have written to some of the many who have asked me to raise a body of men of some kind that there would be no room for us under the present call, and, moreover, that I had no information to the effect that the governors of any of the states were thinking of offering the services of such an organization to the government.

"Judging from the letters I have received I would have no difficulty in raising a large number of men of undoubted courage and skill, and men who would give an account of themselves in the service as scouts. They are all perfectly willing to assume the dangers incident to such a life and many of them are anxious to go. Some of my Texas friends have suggested that I should raise a company of scouts in that state, and they have asured me that they would apply to the governor and secure me a commission for such a purpose.

"Even when a young man, I never could stand lounging around in camp, and I know that I could not endure it now. Scouting would be just in my line, and I am certainly better qualified for that duty than any other, and my friends have considered that my services in this field of action would be of some genuine value. Well, if the governor wants me as a scout I will go, but I have no idea of enlisting in a capacity where I have every reason to believe that most of my time would be spent in camp. ent in camp.
"My dear old mother is wondering if I will go to war again. If I should go and get killed she would not survive the news of my death very long. Few women have gone through the troubles my mother has and there are few who could have survived them. I hear from her every week of his morning," resumed Mr. James, "I and a letter from a nephew of Colonel David Poole of Texas in which the latter urged me to organize a company of Texas rangers. Among other things he said that his uncle was lying at the point of death. All old residents of Missouri will remem-ber David Poole."

A Factious and Small Minded Populist Element

Hampers the Kansas Leaders of the Party,

Turner Pays His Respects to

Topeka's Anti-Leedyites. Thinks Leedy Makes No More

Mistakes Than Predecessors. Discussing Kansas politics today, R.

W. Turner said: "From my standpoint I do not believe that anyone free from party bias will dehy that Governor Leedy, General Boyle, Auditor Morris and Treasurer Heflebower have made excellent officers. On them has rested the burden of the administration which, as a whole, has been exceptionably creditable to Kansas

Kansas.

"There is, however, a chronic weakness in the Populist party, which keeps from it men of breadth and excellence. I refer to that disposition, on the part of many of its members, to regard everything that they don't understand with suspicion, and to delight in fighting and hindering the leaders of their party rather than to uphold their hands. An incident occurred a short time ago which very aptly exemplifies this. I asked a resident of your city, and a prominent Populist, as to whether or not Leedy would carry this county for delegates to the state convention, he delegates to the state convention, he told me that he would not; and when asked why, he stated that in making the appointments connected with the police commission, the aggregate salpolice commission, the aggregate salary of the appointments given to the Democrats and Free Silver Republicans exceeded those given to the Populists by $150 per month; and that Jim this, and John that, had not been appointed policemen. I asked him if he thought the matter could be healed up and the delegates given to Leedy if this was rectified, and John this and Jim that given appointments, and he promptly answered that he had no doubt it could be done. I then stated that I thought the whole state would rise up and say the county was justified in fighting Leedy, and that all sensible and candid people would rise in arms and turn down the governor, the entire administration and embroil the free silver elements in contentions, in order to have istration and embroil the free silver elements in contentions, in order to have Jim this and John that appointed policemen. This kind of politics is a stench that the good people of the state should abate with carbolic acid.

"There is a factious and turbulent element in the Populist party that is too partisan and too hide-bound to realize that a great mass of the people are honest, candid and sensible, and cannot be influenced by the bickerings of those who seem to believe that every act of a man is influenced from a selfish who seem to believe that every act of a man is influenced from a selfish standpoint.

"Governor Leedy, recognizing the eternal fitness of things, made Fred Funston colonel of the First regiment regardless of politics. Immediately this factious, turbulent element in the Populist party commenced to grow! An Frank James has been flooded with letters from many localities in the west and the southwest wanting him to take part in the hostilities against Spain. Some suggest that he should raise a regiment of cowboys, and others that he should muster various organizations of men noted for their courage, accuracy of aim and ability to undergo hardships. For the present, at least, Frank James will not accede to any of these suggestions.

"I am not at all anxious to take an active part in another war," said he. "I served through the last war, and it has been a good many years since peace was declared. Men who have led quiet lives since the close of the civil war are not so active now as they once were, and it seems to me that a good many of the old soldiers who are talking about going through another slege of war would not stand the hardships. They must remember that they are no longer young men, and that going into an unhealthy climate and undergoing the hardships of army life would probably land most of them in the hospital very soon after they pitched camp.

"I believe I am as well preserved as any cause he believed it to be his duty to do so, and because he was urged by countless telegrams and letters from all over the state of Kansas from leading and influential Populists to veto it.

he men who served in the Confederate y, and I think that within two months' ctice I could get used to the saddle in, and probably I would be nearly as d as I ever was, for my health now is class. But there is no opportunity for me to offer my health now is class. But there is no opportunity for me to offer my services, evanuald I be ever so anxious to do so. The souri national guards have enlisted all men the state is entitled to furnish er the president's call.

Will say this much, however: I am feetly willing to offer my time and exemples of my person to the dangers of war in capacity of a scout or as the captain scouts, but I do not believe I could and the dull monotony of camp life. My mas all think that I am best fitted for dutles of a scout. I have had concrable experience in that line, and before the state of Kansas from leading and influential Populists to veto it.

"I am not a partisan, and never expect to be, and I am sure of this, that the great body of Populist voters in the state of Kansas will take pleasure in siting down on an element who has no better cause for complaint than not getting an office.

"It was this spirit that prevented fusion and divided the sliver forces in Jew-dutles of a scout. I have had concrable experience in that line, and be-ample of the state of Kansas from leading and influential Populists to veto it.

"I am not a 1896, who gave their time, money, votes and energies to a cause in which each element has a common faith and expectation.

"If these elements get together, (it may disappoint a few of the turbulent elsewhere referred to,) the state will be carried by 20,000 majority. Because, while some of them might vote the Republican ticket, I know in my own personal acquaintance at least 50 liberal independent Republicans that would vote the ticket of the allied forces, and I don't have to go out of Jewell county to find them. I resigned my office and asked Governor Leedy to send me to Cuba. I want to go. I may be disappointed in this ambition, but I am not the only pebble on the beach."

FAMOUS FLAG IN CHICAGO. Made to Cover Graves of the Maine

Victims. Chicago, April 29.—George C. Mages, who sent the pennant of the battleship Maine to Chicago a few weeks ago, rewith another historic emblem .. the flag that covered a part of the graves of 161 American sallors on the occasion of the memorial service at Havana March 4.

The service was proposed by Mr. Mages, and was participated in by forty irists from the United States. Cubans in Havana promise to make it an annual day of memorial celebration for the dead soldiers of the Maine. Mr. Mages has exhibited the flag in several places of historic interest. It has been raised and cheered on some of the southern battlefields on its way back to Chicago, and its owner says he hopes to see it yet raised with the pen-nant of the Maine over the ruins of Morro Castle. Two Cuban sewed the stars and stripes together for the tourists who made the arrangements for the memo rial service.

Troops Are Being Forwarded to Tampa in Haste.

Early Invasion of Cuba by Land Forces

CONSIDERED CERTAIN.

Movement of Troops Begun at Chickamauga

Extends to New Orleans and Mobile.

Chickamauga National Park, April 29.-The two companies of the Ninth (colored) cavalry which arrived in Chattanooga late yesterday afternoon, were stopped after having started to Chickamauga and switched into the Western & Atlantic yards. Orders are said to have been received to have the troops proceed as rapidly as possible to Tampa, Fla., to which point troops from Mobile have also been ordered. It is currently reported that the companies of the Ninth regiment now in camp here will be shipped at once to Tampa, as well as the Twenty-fourth infantry (colored). Officers of the Ninth have bidden good-bye to their wives and are making every preparation for departure. The movement of troops to Tampa is believed to embrace not only the colored troops, but all the military stationed here, as well. The shipment of the Ninth cavalry following the sudden departure of two batteries of artillery for Tampa has produced a fever of excitement among the soldiers. The Sixteenth regiment of infantry, from Forts Sherman and Spokane, Wash, and Boise Barracks, Idaho, arrived in Chattanooga last night.

Companies B and F of the Ninth (colored) cavalry from Ft. Duchesne, Utah, 127 mon in command of Cautain H W.

137 men, in command of Captain H. W. Wright, also arrived. General orders have been issued forming the artillery into a brigade of two battalions, to be commanded by Lieu-tenant Colonel W. F. Randolph, of the Third artillery. The first battalion consisting of light batteries A and F, of the Third, is placed in command of J. M. Lancaster. Major J. W. Dillenback is given command of the Second battalion, made up of light batterles B and F, of the Fourth and light bat-teries D and F, of the Fifth. Mobile Ala., April 29.-A train moved out from the government military camp near Mobile this afternoon for Tampa, carrying supplies, escort wagons, am-bulances, mules and hostlers and teambulances, mules and hostlers and team-sters. It is reported here that it is the first step of a movement that will fin-ally concentrate all the troops now here ally concentrate all the troops now here at Tampa and also those at New Orleans so as to form with the troops at Tampa a force of 8,000 to be the advance guard of the army of occupation of Cuba. The Tenth and Twenty-second regiments have received orders to leave for Tampa at noon, and began at once preparing for the journey.

The item of sub-sistence alone will be an enormous one The subsistence officers have reported to Secretary Alger that the provisioning of the army in the field to August 31 will involve an expenditure of nearly $5,000, 000.

The estimate for subsistence is 20 cent The estimate for subsistence is 20 cents per day per man, and is for an army of 185,000 (consolidated force of 80,000 regulars and 125,000 volunteers) $37,000 per day. It has been recognized now that the estimates prepared must not contemplate the maintenance of an army for a less period than 3 year. This means an annual cost for subsistence alone during that period of $13,505,000.

New York, April 29.—Mrs. Hetty Green, who is reported to be worth $50,000,000, has ceased to live in Hobo-ken, N. J. She left the little city on the North river yesterday afternoon. There was nothing pretentious about her de-parture as one small truck her own parture, as one small truck, her own property, removed all her furniture. The latter consisted of two beds—one wooden, the other iron—four chairs, not in the best shape; three large soap boxes, containing loose blankets and kitchen ware; two ancient lounges, two kitchen ware; two ancient lounges, two plain tables, and some ticking.

Mrs. Green occupied the third floor of 1248 Bloomfield street, Hoboken. She lived like a recluse with her husband, who is an invalid, and her daughter Sylvia. Father and daughter occupied beds, but the millionalress slept on blankets on the floor in a hall bedroom. The wealthy woman's neighbors say she knew all the cheapest stores in Hoboken, and made all her purchases at boken, and made all her purchases at the lowest figures.

MALLORY LINE SUSPENDS. Brought About by Fear of Seizure of Their Ships.

St. Louis, April 29.—The Mallory line of steamers plying between New York and Galveston has stopped on account of the war.

This announcement is of deepest interest to St. Louis business men, since

New York, April 29.—Mr. Gerlach, who owns the big hotel on Twenty-seventh street, is a pigeon fancier. He has reared his homers in a loft on the roof of the Gerlach. Many of his guests going to Europe have taken the birds with them and flown them from the steamers' decks, so they know the points of the compass as well as a sailor. Mr. Gerlach has lent these clever carriers to Uncle Sam, and they will be used as messengers between the blockading fleet at Havana and Key
